1. According to the Five-Year Plan, at least 70 one-thousand ton, motor-driven ships must be built every year. This goal cannot be met because of the lack of materials and a shortage of dockyards.
2. In both Rostock and Wismar one ocean-going ship of 7,000 tons is under construction. These two ships are combined cargo and passenger ships and form part of a reparations delivery for the USSR. They are intended for the Baltic fleet in the Leningrad area.
